Harvey Bussey Pitches in Old Time Form :-: Sandy and Titman Hit Some -:- Baseball Gossip

That Harvey Bussey has finally gotten back into his old-time form was demonstrated yesterday, when he went eleven innings against the Norfolk Tars, and allowed them but five scattered singles and did not pass a single man. Bussey always has been famous for his good control, and it is a mighty big asset in winning games, for it frequently happens that a pass will develop into the run that proves to be the winning tally.

Big Bill Otey also pitched some develop into the run that proves to be the winning tally.

Big Bill Otey also pitched some classy ball against the Coits, allowing only eight singles and one double and striking out eight men. That he was able to fan five in the tenth and eleventh innings probably was due to the darkness. The Coits are not good hitters on dark days.

The Champions and the Tars certainly played a great gaine. While the affair was a pitchers' battle, both teams did some classy fielding; only two errors were made, Richmond bungling once and Norfolk once.
